CNCT Examination Proctor Contract

In proctoring the Certified Nerve Conduction Technologist (CNCT) Examination, I certify that I am the candidate's superior (lab medical director, supervisor, etc...) and that each candidate has completed this examination in accordance with all instructions and requirements as outlined below:

I have verified the candidate's identity with a photo I.D. prior to the start of the examination.

The candidate will not receive help in any form from another person, including myself.

The candidate will not use any books, notes, online content, or other items (including, but not limited to: cellular phones, hand-held computers, personal digital assistants, recording devices, other computers), except blank paper provided by me (proctor) during the examination.

The candidate will never be left unattended at any time during the examination.

The candidate and his or her computer monitor will remain within my field of vision during the entire duration of the examination.

The supplied scratch paper is collected and destroyed at the conclusion of the examination.

If the candidate needs to use the restroom, he or she will not bring anything from the examination into the restroom.
